

DRAFT HORSE

A Draft Horse is a big strong horse that was originally used for hard work like plowing fields or pulling big wagons. There are many different breeds that are considered draft horses but all of them are big and strong! JHTR's horse Josh is a draft horse! Draft horses come in all different colors and usually have extra hair on their legs called feathers. Josh's color is called fleabitten grey which means he has white hair with little black dots all over his body. Josh can carry participants of all sizes from small to very tall! Do not be scared of his size though because he is a big cuddly sweetheart!
